Time to Leave.

The late D'Oyly Carte always safeguarded himself by refusing to see any one who had not an appointment or stated his or her business on a printed form supplied at his office. Alfred Celler used to tell a delightful story in this respect. He had a manservant, a Swiss Italian, and one day, having been invited to dine with Mr. and Mrs.
Carte on Adelphi terrace and forgotten the time, he sent down his henchman to learn the hour of the repast.
This was about 10 in the morning. The day went on, and no emissary appeared till past 5 in the evening, when the henchman crept wearily in.

"Where have you been, you rascal?" asked Celler indignantly.

"Ah, sare," replied the poor fellow,
"I go Mistare Carte. I go in room. A gentleman 'e come and say, 'What name?' I tell him and say, 'I vant see Mistare Carte.' He say, 'All in good time; wait for your name; sit down.' I sit down. Lots gentlemen and ladies.
I wait, I wait, I wait. I get ongrt and doorst, but still I wait, I wait, I wait.
Den at last I 'ear my name. I go in leetel room. Gentleman 'e say, 'Vat rooc?' I say, 'I not know.' 'E say, 'Den what come here for?' I say, 'I vant know what time Mistare Carte vay dinner?' Den 'e svare, and I come 'ome."

An Irish Retort.

Pat, the driver of the coal wagon, seemed puzzled when he got up on High street the other day. He looked at the numbers of several houses and scratched his head in a perplexed way.
Finally Mrs. Eaton, for whom the coal was intended, appeared and inquired:
"Beg pardon, but is that coal for Eaton?"

"No, noom," responded Pat promptly,

I first became familiar with this val-eduction at Malta in the seventies. It was then in common use among the Maltese of Valetta, but was by them time took it to be a local form of the great when on returning to England in the eighties I found the phrase prevalent in London. —Notes and Queries.

That you're liable to slip on a heavy coat of frost.

Then some prompt decided action will be called into demand.

And you'll slip way to the bottom if you haven't any sand."

"There's more truth than poetry in that, and I feel every word of it. Wish I could impress it on every boy and girl and every man and woman, and the track through life could be kept pretty clear. There isn't much that's flowery about me, Polly—just sand.
I'm rough, and say some things that are pretty hard sometimes, but really I don't mean to be unkind. It's just my way." Good advice, and it comes from the heart. Don't you think so?

Is there anything more cruel than slander? If there is Polly would like to know it. Slander flies like the winged arrow tipped with its deadly poison. It is fleet as the wind and as treacherous and wicked as sin. It scatters its venom as it flies and sows its broadcast just as the wind does the down of the thistle. The slanderer is a coward of the first water. He never comes out openly and says what he has to say, but throws out insinuations in quarters to those who love the tooth-some morsel and will delight in passing it with a little addition to the unwholesome narrative. The slanderer is also a falsifier. Truth has hidden her fair face from him and he is reveling in the joys of falsehood and deceit. With them he is at home and in his element.
Every city, town and village has its slanderer, more's the pity, and he lurks among the high and the low, the rich and the poor.

BRIEF REVIEW.

Our Vast Mineral Resources.

A chart published by the Geological Survey gives a summary of the mineral products of the United States for the past ten years. The aggregate values have increased by more than one-half in that period and the figures for 1899 are greater than in any previous year, footing up the enormous total of $976,- 000,000. The value of the metallic products of the year is given at $527,218,084 and of the non-metallic at $447,790,862.
The latter class, includes, of course, the coals—$168,000,000 in bituminous and $88,000,000 in Pennsylvania anthracite —$64,600,000 in petroleum, $20,000,000 of natural gas and large value in stone, brick clay and cement, with various other minerals. Of the metals our pig iron is worth almost as much as all the others together, the value of the product in 1899 being given at $245,- 000,000. Copper comes next, with $104,- 000,000, and the $71,000,000 in gold is third. The market value of the silver produced '99 was about $33,- 000,000 and the gold and zinc together were worth about as much. Quicksilver, aluminum, antimony, nickel and platinum are the other metals that figure in the table.

National Gallery for Washington.

There is talk among artists and persons interested in art of the establishment in Washington of an American national gallery, which shall do for this country what the National Gallery does in London and the Louvre in Paris. In spite of the fact that the American capital is not the American metropolis, Washington seems to be the inevitable home of such a gallery when it comes, and it is surely coming. The present movement is credited by the newspapers with the support of many of the ablest American painters and sculptors. A committee which has it in charge includes in its membership Sargent, Whistler, La Farge, Dielman, Alexander, Macmonnies and many others. That there is a great future for art in America no one can doubt, but due appreciation is still lacking in this country for the work of our own men, and the highest success in art does not yet bring in this country rewards in reputation or in money comparable to those attainable in Europe. New York still runs after foreign painters, somewhat to the neglect of men as good and in many cases better at home.

Britons Scooped in Making Carbons.

Carburendum and artificial graphite are products which England ought to manufacture, says a London newspaper. The works in Niagara and in Vienna for the manufacture of these substances have never been able to keep pace with the demand, though the manufacturer fixes his own price for the finished material. A correspondent, traveling in Germany, calls attention to the huge industry involved in the manufacture of carbons for electrical lighting, the cathodes and anodes in electro-chemistry and other purposes. The raw material for these are chiefly exported from Great Britain, which reimports them in their manufactured form.

The emerald mines of Colombia, which are the chief mines of the kind in the world, have been owned by the Government for fully 200 years, and concessions to work them have been granted from time to time, resulting in large profits to the contractors.

Sir Henry Johnston, British Commissioner in Uganda, has discovered a variety of giraffe having five horns. It is named hufadotherium, is part ox, part giraffe, and was thought to have been extinct for centuries.

CURRENT NEWS

CALIFORNIA.

CONTRA COSTA.

Preparations are under way for the county fair which is to be held at Concord on September 25th, 26th, 27th and 28th. This cuts the fair short one day as compared with previous years, but in the opinion of the directors such a change was wise in view of the fact that it will enable them to give larger purses and prizes.

SANTA CRUZ.

Good progress has been made at the Rich Gulch mine by St. Louis and Chicago capitalists, who have taken hold of it. During the past month fifty feet of drift has been dug and twenty feet of drift run. The vein is looking well.

FRESNO.

Theodore Kearney, president of the Raisin Growers' Association of Fresno, speaking of the proposition made to the packers to take the surplus of 700 carloads of raisins off the hands of the association, stated that no bids had yet been received, but it would take about $500,000 to effect the purpose, and W.
M. Griffin of the firm of Griffin & Skelly, would go East in a few days to seek co-operation in the purchase and disposal of the surplus raisins. The matter is of vital importance if good prices are to be obtained for this year's crop.

INYO.

The silver-lead output of the Cerro Gordo mine from the time of its discovery until 1876, when it was closed by Blighton, has been estimated at $15,- 000,000. Some work is being done there again at present.

LOS ANGELES.

A man in the hospital with his left hand gone, two other men more or less bruised and shaken up and a construction train derailed and smashed, is the record of a run made over the new line of the electric street railway between Altadena and Rubio canyon. Amos Z.
Blighton, who lost his hand, also had his shoulder dislocated.

Professor Joseph Hetz, a school teacher at Green Meadows, has been arrested on the charge of assault and battery upon the person of Josephine Duncan, a fifteen-year-old pupil in his school.
According to the testimony of the girl, he severely chastised her with a heavy leather strap, and then, angered by her resistance, knocked her down, sat upon her and beat her in the face.

MONTREY.

The grand jury at Alturas, which adjudged after having investigated the Lookout lynchings, returned three indictments for murder. Robert Leven-ton, Leon Eades and James W. Brown are the persons named. The indictments charge these three men with the murder of Martin Wilson, the thirteen-year-old son of old Mary Wilson, the squire. "Old Mary," as she was called, was formerly the wife of Calvin Hall, by whom she had one son, James, who was lynched with his father, his brother Frank, young Martin Wilson and Sam Yantis. The evidence against these three indicted men is said to be much stronger in the case of Martin Wilson than in the case of the other four men lynched.

MERCED.

Preliminary steps have been taken by a local attorney for ousting from office E. N. Reeder, Superior Judge of Merced county, on the ground of technical illegality in the election. A request has been made to the Attorney-General for permission to bring suit for this purpose in the name of the people of the State of California. It is alleged as a basis of the suit that the notices for the election last November were not posted in the several precincts ten days prior to the date of election, as required by law; that so far as the election of Superior Judge is concerned, the election was a special one to fill an unexpected term, and that in such cases it is absolutely necessary that the notice be posted ten days prior to election.

MENDOCINO.

Considerable interest has been manifested throughout the county of Mendocino by the discovery of a large flow of natural gas upon the ranch of J. B.
Brown, a farmer living about twelve miles from Covelo. For several years Brown has noticed that upon the surface of a large marsh on his ranch bubbles were continually rising and that there was a peculiar odor in the air near that place. A large iron caldron was placed in an inverted position upon the surface of the marsh and a match applied to a hole in the bottom of the caldron. A flame six feet in height burst into view, burning steadily and brilliantly until extinguished. The new find will be developed at once.

MARIN.

A man giving the name of Frank Burke was run over and probably fatally injured by a train on the North Pacific Coast Railroad at Ross station.
He was frightfully mangled.

NEVADA.

The new ten-stamp mill of the Jenny Lind mine near Grass Valley is nearly completed. A large stock of ore is ready for crushing as soon as it begins running.

ORANGE.

Louis Wells, a prominent rancher near Talbert, in the peat lands, is lying at the point of death at his home, with two knife wounds in his back, inflicted by John Crutchens, a young man from Arkansas, who had been in his employ.
Wells owned Crutchens a small amount of money for labor, and had told him that he would be paid soon after the first of July. Crutchens, recovering from a protracted spree, went to Wells and demanded his money. When told he could not get it until the time promised, he whipped out a large pocketknife and stabbed Wells.

PLACER.

William Ennis, aged 18 years, fell 300 feet down a shaft in the Hathaway mine. He was a water-tender and was drawing water at the 400-foot level when he lost his balance in some way.

The body was recovered from forty feet of water. This is a very serious accident that has never happened at the Hathaway.

An Eastern exchange in speaking of advertising says: "Like the continuous dropping that wears away the stone, systematic advertising in an artistic way, day after day, year in and year out, becomes part of the reading matter of the great newspaper. You never miss the water until the well runs dry." Newspaper readers do not know, perhaps, how much entertainment and benefit they get from the advertising columns until they think about it. Then they realize that all these merchants who, day after day talk to them through the newspaper columns are their friends and acquaintances, and they act accordingly."

A tall red-whiskered man with a slouch hat and frontier accent walked up to the boxoffice of the Schiller Theater, in Chicago, one night lately and demanded two seats. He informed the treasurer that he was Mayor of Missoula, Montana, and wanted to be treated accordingly. He was told that a good seat would be presented to him if he had the price. As he slipped the tickets into his pocket he said, "What time does the show begin?" "At 8:15, sir." "Well, if I ain't here on time don't wait for me; I'll drop in afore long."—Exchange.

If Paul Perazzo is found and brought back to Sonoma on that charge of obtaining money under false pretenses, he can easily escape conviction by pleading that the goods were on the shelves in the "Dewdrop" when the sale was consummated. Of course the stock is not there now, but then—well, everybody knows how spirits are wont to mysteriously disappear!

It is the man who never saw the inside of a printing office who knows the most about editing a paper, the man who never had any business of his own who can give others business pointers, and the man who never batted a ball who can tell just how a game of base ball ought to be played. What a successful world this would be if the folks who know it all would put their knowledge into practice!

Sir John Lubbock quotes two gems from Parliamentary speeches; one by a Highlander who said of an appropriation that it was a "mere flea bite in the ocean." Another Scotch member remarked that "you may depend on it, sir, the pale face of the British soldier is the backbone of the Indian army."

It has long been our candid conviction that if all the dogs in the world were boiled down into one, there would be in the result the making of a very noble man. On the other hand, we fancy that if all the men in the world were boiled down into one there would be the result of the making of a proverbial poor dog.—Bug, Field.

An Irish sergeant was drilling a squad of militia recruits, whose ideas of marching in line were altogether original. Getting utterly disgusted at their irregularity he bawled: "Halt! Just come out and look at yourselves. It's a fine line you're making, isn't it?"

Parent:—"And does my daughter really love you?" Chappie: "Dear sir!" Parent (reflectively): "I presume so, poor, frank-hearted little Katie! She could love most anything!"—Ex.

Still in Doubt.—First Little Girl: "Has your sister begun takin' music lessons yet?" Second Little Girl: "She's takin' somethin' on 'er piano; but I can't tell yet whether it's music or type writin'."—Daily Traveler.

War Tax Reductions.

By act of Congress at the late session a considerable reduction took place in the war revenue taxes July 1. Upon some articles the taxes have been lowered while those upon other articles have been repealed altogether. At the time the measure was passed it was estimated that the total reduction would amount to about $45,000,000. That sum, therefore, which was paid last year into the treasury of the Government, will remain in the hands of the people and the channels of trade.

Among the articles on which taxes are reduced are beer, cigars, cigarettes, tobacco, snuff, conveyances, bills of exchange, sales of products at exchanges and passage tickets. Those upon which the taxes have been repealed altogether are as follows: Bank checks, 2 cents; Bills of lading for export, 10 cents; Bond of obligation by guarantee company, one-half of 1 cent on each dollar; Certificates of damages, 25 cents; Certificates of deposit, 2 cents; Certificates not otherwise specified, 10 cents; Charter party, $3 to $10; Chewing gum, 4 cents on each $1; Commercial brokers, $20; Drafts, sight, 2 cents; Express receipts, 1 cent; Insurance—Life, 8 cents on each $100; marine, inland, fire, one-half cent on each $1; casualty, fidelity and guaranty, one-half cent on each $1; Lease, 25 cents to $1; Manifest for Custom-house entry, $1 to $5; Mortgage of conveyance in trust, 25 cents for each $1000; Order for payment of money on sight or on demand; Perfumery and cosmetics, one-eighth cent for each 5 cents; Power of attorney to vote, 10 cents; Power of attorney to sell, 25 cents; Promissory notes, 2 cents for each $100; Proprietary medicines, one-eighth cent for each 5 cents; Protest, 25 cents; Telegraph messages, 1 cent; Telephone messages, 1 cent; United States money orders, 3 cents for each $100; Warehouse receipts, 25 cents.

Taxes on legacies, of an educational, religious, or charitable character were also repealed by the act, but the repeal went into effect on March 1. There remain of the war revenues, taxes on bankers' capital and surplus, on the issue of stock, bonds and certificates of indebtedness, on brokers, on transfers of stock, on proprietors of circuses, billiard rooms, theaters, etc., on sleeping and parlor car tickets, and on inland drafts and bills of exchange.

As it has long been known that the taxes were to be terminated July 1, it is not likely there are many tax stamps or stamped checks in the hands of the people. The Government, however, under certain conditions, will redeem such as are outstanding. Documentary stamps, for example, must be presented in sums of $2 or more and within two years of the time of their purchase, and claims for recovery of money must be accompanied by the dealers and collectors' certificate of the date and amount of sale. Claims for the redemption of stamps printed on checks and drafts, etc., will pass through the hands of the collector of the district in which the order for the printing of the stamps was purchased to Washington.

Thus, while something of the war tax remains, the burden of it has been greatly lightened, and what will be more satisfactory to the people, the taxes which have been most irritating and annoying have been repealed altogether.—S. F. Call.

White Man Turned Yellow.

Great consternation was felt by the friends of M. A. Hogarty of Lexington, Ky., when they saw he was turning yellow. His skin slowly changed color, also his eyes, and he suffered terribly. His malady was Yellow Jaundice. He was treated by the best doctors, but without benefit. Then he was advised to try Electric Bitters, the wonderful Stomach and Liver remedy, and he writes: "After taking two bottles I was wholly cured." A trial proves its matchless merit for all Stomach, Liver and Kidney troubles. Only 50c. Sold by Dr. R. G. Shoults, Druggist.

Mr. Harry Shaw, Milton McGimsey, Miss Ella McGimsey, and Miss Kate Morris left Wednesday morning by team for a week's outing near Ukiah.

Married Three Days After Divorce

The killing of Conductor Graham on the North Pacific Coast road may result in another suit for damages. The prospects of a fortune being thus left to his heirs is given as a reason for the quarrel between his mother and his widow over his remains. Mrs. Graham, Jr., was married to Graham at Reno just three days after securing a divorce from a former husband. The mother claims this marriage was illegal, and that the widow is not the legal heir and custodian of the remains. The body was buried at Occidental but the mother had it taken up to be shipped to San Francisco. An order from Sonoma's coroner stopped the remains at Tomales and they remained in a box car over night.—Argus.

Her Horse Backed off Open Bridge

Petaluma, July 1.—Miss Ella Ormsby, a young lady of Corona, had a miraculous escape from death while returning from a Santa Rosa trip Sunday. The horse behind which Miss Ormsby and her companion were riding backed off of an open bridge, falling with Miss Ormsby and the buggy to the creek bed sixteen feet below.

In the descent the buggy half turned, throwing Miss Ormsby against the side of the bank and from under the falling horse. She was scarcely injured. The horse, falling on the buggy, made kindling wood of the vehicle, and was so badly hurt that it will die from its injuries.

A Pleasant Reception.

A very cordial and pleasant reception was tendered Mr. and Mrs. F. Mitcheltree last Tuesday evening. The affair was entirely informal, but a good time was had by every one. The reception was held in the M. E. Church parlors, which had been tastefully decorated for the occasion, with flowers and boughs of evergreen. Quite a number of friends were present to greet Mr. and Mrs. Mitcheltree and offer congratulations and good wishes.

Celebration at Glen Ellen.

About 500 people from San Francisco attended the dedication of the Old Friends' Home at Glen Ellen on Sunday, coming thither on a special train. The day was taken up with the dedicatory ceremony, a picnic and barbecue. The Hon. Robert Peral was the orator of the day. Professor S. L. Parks and his band from Santa Rosa furnished the music during the day. It was a big event for Glen Ellen.

A Fourth of July Picnic.

The picnic gotten up by Rev. Peterson and Mr. L. R. Caughell was a very successful one. A great many people from Sonoma and vicinity spent the day in Maxwell's Grove and a very delightful day was enjoyed. Games and other amusements served to entertain the jolly picnicers. A fine lunch was spread out under the trees and enjoyed by every one.

Epworth Leaguers Coming.

San Francisco, July 2.—There will be an enormous influx of Epworth Leaguers into the city on July 16 and 17. On these two days no less than forty trains are expected on the Southern Pacific, which will bring 12,000 persons. In addition the Denver and Rio Grande will bring in 10,000 people. The reports from the Union Pacific are equally gratifying.

She Didn't Wear a Mask.

PORTER'S BAD RECORD.

Cow Thief Given Eight Years by Judge Burnett, Had Been in Penitentiary Thrice Before.

Deputy Sheriff Logan Tombs returned to Santa Rosa on Wednesday from Folsom prison, where he took Frank Porter to serve a term of eight years for the theft of a cow, the property of Mr. Reed of Penngrove.

At Folsom Deputy Tombs learned that Porter was a noted criminal. At the time of his trial in Santa Rosa very little was known of him. He said that he was a "stranger in a strange land" and professed ignorance of anything and anybody. He protested that he had never been in trouble before.

When Deputy Tombs presented Porter at the grim portals of Folsom, the latter was hailed by one of the guards: "Hello, Porter; what are you here for again?"

This caused Mr. Tombs to prick up his ears and make inquiries. He learned that Porter had served two terms in Folsom and a four-year term in San Quentin. In the rogue's gallery he was shown Porter's picture. One of the previous convictions was for horse-stealing, so it seems that he had been in the live stock business before coming to Sonoma county this last time. In 1884 he was convicted in San Francisco for house-breaking and got a four-year term in San Quentin.

On the way up to Folsom, from Sacramento "Sleuth" Tombs met the sheriff of Los Angeles county enroute to the jail with a man to do sixteen years for highway robbery. The sheriff glanced at Porter and remarked: "You have a more desperate criminal there than I have."

At Sacramento Porter tried his best to get Tombs to take off the handcuffs which held his wrists, on some pretext. "Nay, nay, Pauline," quoth the officer; "wait till yonder iron door at Folsom swings tight and then those iron cuffs shall be unlocked."

At this the prisoner became a little abusive, but had to submit. There is no doubt but that Porter had an idea that if the handcuffs were removed he would try a sprint on his own account.

Now that the truth is known as regards Porter's past record, the compassion that was extended him by some people will doubtless be transferred.—Press Dem.

Prof. Charles Putnam Goes to the Philippines.

Prof. Charles Putnam, principal of the Petaluma grammar school, has resigned his position and will go to the Philippines as teacher in the schools which the government is now instituting in the islands. The resignation of the well known educator was read at the meeting of the board of education Wednesday night.

Prof. Putnam will be missed in the Petaluma schools and in circles where he was well known. The board of education recently raised his salary from $100 to $120 a month, but in his letter of resignation to one of the school directors, he states that he can do better in the Philippines. The professor is now in Berkeley.

Sonoma Mountain's Poetess Has Crossed the River.

Mrs. Edward Puckett, a pioneer resident of Sonoma county, passed away Tuesday morning, after a brief illness at the family home on Sonoma Mountain.

Mrs. Puckett before coming to California taught in a Canadian convent for a number of years. She was a native of Ireland and about sixty years of age.

It was as a writer of verse that Mrs. Puckett was best known. She issued a number of volumes of verse. She wrote strongly and daintily of nature's beauties, though she did not confine herself to this one theme.

Mrs. Puckett taught in the Petaluma schools a number of years ago.

She leaves a husband and one son, Alfred Puckett, also a verse writer of ability.—Pet. Argus.

High School Trustees.

Grand Garden Party.

The ladies of St. Francis Church have perfected all arrangements for a grand garden party, to be given Saturday evening July the 20th at the picturesque grounds of Mrs. Lulu de Emparan. During the evening refreshments will be served and an excellent vocal and instrumental programme will be presented. In addition to the prominent part taken by our local performers, choice humorous selections and comic songs will be rendered by the Glee Club of the League of the Cross cadets of San Francisco. The cadets will be holding their annual encampment in Napa at that time and at the request of the ladies of this parish, several members of the Glee Club, through the permission of their superiors have kindly consented to come to our town and take part in the entertainment. Their reputation is well known in San Francisco where they have frequently appeared at church entertainments and afforded much amusement to select gatherings. For this reason a large crowd is expected to turn out to the garden party and a rare treat is guaranteed to those who have the good fortune to attend.

Admission to the grounds for adults will be 25 cents. Children under 12 years 10 cents.

Money Under False Pretenses.

Paul Perazzo, who for quite a while has been a prominent figure in Sonoma, is now being sought for by Constable Ohm and if found will have to answer to a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses.

On Monday Paride Basaglia appeared before Judge Small and swore out a warrant charging Perazzo as above. The complaint sets forth that on the 24th of June Perazzo sold to the complainant a one-half interest in the stock and fixtures of the "Dewdrop" saloon, for the sum of $35. The transfer being made without the purchaser having seen the stock purchased. After several days Basaglia went over to take charge of his saloon and was painfully surprised to find nothing there. He immediately swore out a warrant for his supposed partner's arrest, but not until the latter had departed for other fields.

Marriage of Leland Shaw.

Leland H. Shaw, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Shaw, was married on Tuesday of this week to a young lady of Lynn, Connecticut. Mr. Shaw was formerly well known in Sonoma but has been away for about fourteen years. He was for several years engaged in business in Bridgeport Conn. and is now secretary of the Y. M. C. A. of that city.

For their wedding tour the newly married couple will come to California. They will reach Sonoma sometime next week.

His Fourth Birthday.

Master Vernon Caughell was four years old on Tuesday, and a number of his little friends spent the afternoon at the Caughell home on Second street helping him celebrate the event. The children present were Mable Caughell, Mina Colton, Russell Colton, Harry Fisher, Marguerite Walker, Marguerite Caughell and Master Vernon.

A Letter From the Northland.

Mr. C. F. Anderson, who some time ago left Sonoma for Alaska, to look after his extensive mining interests, wrote to the editor of this paper a few days ago stating that at Unalaska, on June 8th, everything was frozen up tight and fast, which fact is hard to realize by those who were sweating in the States at that time.

The steamboat "Nome City" was stuck in the ice about 200 miles from Dutch Harbor, he said, and the many passengers on board were unable to leave the ice-locked vessel.

Mr. Anderson expects to return to Sonoma some time this fall.

How Jim Escaped.

There had been an accident on the line and a knot of section hands were awaiting the arrival of the wrecking train. There were no lives lost, only a few injured. Naturally, to while away the time, they fell to telling stories, and naturally, the dead engine, broken cars and injured persons led them to recite their own narrow escapes, which, we may be sure, they did not minimize.

One of the company, who had swallowed several of his companion's blood curdling reminiscences, thought it about time to get even. He was a man of Herculean build and long legs, features which bore out perhaps as far as was necessary, the truth of his story.

"I was crossing one of our trestle bridges and thought I had plenty of time, but I suppose my watch must have lost a little or maybe the train was ahead of time; anyway, I had not gone more than a third over the bridge, when I heard the rumble of the approaching lightning express. It was impossible to see the train or gauge its distance on account of a curve in the line. It was even closer than I imagined, for upon a few more steps a despairing glance behind revealed to me the train just coming upon the bridge. In the few seconds allotted me I saw there was no time to crawl down beneath the ties. To drop between them meant a fall of a hundred feet upon the rocks and boulders beneath—

"Is that the smoke of the wrecking train we see over that hill," said Jim interrupting his story.

"Oh, never mind that Jim said another, 'what in the name of the golden rails of heaven did you do?'"

"What could I do, boys, there was only one thing possible. I had to jump for it."

"What, a hundred feet down?" said another.

"No, boys, up and let the darned thing go under."

"But here is the wrecker, let's get to work."

Oil Has Enriched Kern.

Bakersfield, July 1.—The county assessor has turned his assessment books over to the supervisors. He has not completed footings, but approximately the total assessed valuation of property in this county is $20,000,000, an increase of $5,000,000 over last year. This increase is due to oil development.

SHE WAS BLIND.

A blindness comes to me now and then. I have it now. It is queer—I can see your eyes but not your nose. I can't read because some of the letters are blurred; dark spots cover them; it is very uncomfortable. I know all about it; it's DYSPEPSIA. Take one of these; it will cure you in ten minutes. What is it? A Ripans Tabule.

WANTED—A case of bad health that R.I.P.A.S. will not benefit. They banish pain and peeling lips. One gives relief. Note the word R.I.P.A.S. on the package and receipt in evidence. R.I.P.A.S. is for constipation or weak bowels for 48 cents. May be used at leading stores. Free samples and one thousand testimonials will be mailed to any address for 2 cents, forwarded to the Ripans Chemical Co., 200 Broadway, New York.

The Opportunity of the Hour

...Is Yours...

If you are only prepared to grasp it. A business education is the key to the situation.

The Demand for Office Help in San Francisco has never been so great within the last ten years as now.

Applications for Our Graduates for Positions continue to pour in upon us from business men far beyond our capacity to supply. During the last ninety days we have averaged per school day, 1½ applicants for our graduates.

Reason—Our College has established a reputation for thoroughness that has inspired confidence among business men in the integrity of our work.
A Position will be Secured for You just as soon as you become proficient enough to pass our "Examinations for Positions." (You can not get your recommendation unless you come up to the standard; but when you get it, it means something.)

Come to the City—Business is done to-day at short range. We are right here on the ground where the business of the Coast is done, and keep in such close touch with business men that we can secure positions for all our graduates; whereas it is only at rare intervals that country colleges can secure a position for a graduate.

Twenty Lost Gold Mines.

There are at least 20 lost gold mines in various parts of the world. Many of them have yielded rich ores and then have been deserted and entirely lost.

There is one in the north of the Transvaal, for instance, that was discovered by accident in the eighties by two Englishmen. The finders had encamped one night and had, as they thought, securely tethered their horses when they suddenly heard a loud neigh from one of the animals and a moment later saw them both racing away apparently in the greatest terror.

Soon after dawn they were up and after an hour's tramp found one of the poor beasts lying on the ground with a broken leg. In its struggles it had kicked up the ground and had exposed rich gold quartz only a few inches below the surface.

The two men marked the spot and returned to the district a month later to start work on the mine. But in spite of all their efforts they could not find the place, and to this day the mine has not been rediscovered.

In the late seventies there was tremendous excitement in California when a prospector described a gold mine he had found. A party soon prepared to set out, with the discoverer of the mine as guide, but the mine has never been discovered, though thousands of dollars have been spent in prospecting for it.—Stray Stories.

Borax Soap.

To make an excellent soap out of the scraps and broken pieces that come from the soap dishes in bedrooms and kitchens, drop them into an old tin can, and when it is full dissolve three ounces of powdered borax in two quarts of warm water, and stir till the soap is melted. When cold, it will form a jelly. This borax soap is excellent for cleaning and does not fade articles washed in it.

A Couple of Card Stories.

One of the light fingered fraternity after winning ten games at cards in succession tried his fortune against a new opponent and continued to win.
He had made four points and, dealing, turned up a king and won.
"My luck is something wonderful," he remarked.
"Yes," said his adversary, "and all the more wonderful since I have the four kings of the pack in my pocket," and the professor of legdemain laid them on the table.

Henry Lord de Ros was once said to be one of the best whist players in England. Subsequently, however, it was discovered that he was in the habit of aiding his skill by marking with his nails the high honors of the pack so that he might observe to whom they were dealt. During the scandal which followed this discovery a would be wit who had never been admitted to his acquaintance drawled out:
"I would leave my card at his house, but I fear he would mark it."
"That would depend," remarked a gentleman present, "on whether he considered it a high honor."—Waverly Magazine.

A Costly Funeral.

The most costly state funeral which has ever taken place was perhaps that of Alexander the Great. A round million was spent in laying Alexander to rest. The body was placed in a coffin of gold, filled with costly ar-omatics, and a diadem was placed on the head. The funeral car was embellished with ornaments of pure gold, and its weight was so great that it took 84 mules more than a year to convey it from Babylon to Syria.

The modest man has everything to gain and the arrogant man everything to lose, for modesty has ways to deal with generosity and arrogance with envy.—Rivarol.

PEOPLE OF THE DAY

Rostand One of the Immortals.
Edmond Rostand has been elected a member of that exclusive circle, the Academy. He had a close call; but, it is said, the friendship and active support of Mme. Sarah Bernhardt won for the famous dramatist the coveted

EDMOND ROSTAND.

place. Rostand needs no introduction to the American reader. We have all either seen, read or heard of his "Cyrano de Bergerac" and "L'Aiglon." Though still in the early thirties, when he gave it to the world Rostand's "Cyrano" made him famous. He had written plays before and was regarded with favor in France, but it was his many sided hero with the abnormal nose that gave him worldwide fame.
Sarah Bernhardt has for years been an admirer of and firm believer in Ros-tand, and the tie which bound them was made stronger when he gave her "L'Aiglon," a part after her own heart.
He is writing another play for "the divine Sarah."

Anecdotes About J. J. Hill.

Mr. Hill was one day walking down Third street, once a flourishing thoroughfare, but now deserted by the general public. He stepped into a little tobacco shop kept by a German who had known him in the village days of 1860.
"Hello, Joe!" exclaimed the railroad president. "How's business?" "Battery bat. I haf der chop, but vere is der beeples?" Mr. Hill glanced over the shop. There was no assistant tobacco-conist whose discharge could be recommended. But Mr. Hill asked for a blank check, and the following week the old tobaccoist was besieged by "beeples" in a modern well stocked shop on the principal retail thoroughfare.
Some months ago Mr. Hill visited the office of a railroad in the stock of which he had just obtained an influential interest. Glancing through the doorway of one large office room, he asked curiously, "How many men here?" "About 85," was the answer. "Can't you get along with less?" "No, we never could."
"Well, I'll get a man who can."—

Re-elected by Acclamation.

The Confederate Veterans' reunion recently held in Memphis was the most successful meeting ever held by that organization. There were more than 2,300 delegates present. General John B. Gordon of Georgia was re-elected commander in chief without opposition, and the way it was done must have warmed the old warrior's heart.
When the order of election of officers

GENERAL JOHN B. GORDON.

came, the name of John B. Gordon was placed before the convention, and instantly some one shouted, "Let's make his re-election unanimous." With a mighty burst of voices "Aye!" thundered through the hall. "Let's rise and do it again," came a voice, and with accord the convention rose, and with hats swinging in the air, "Aye!" again thundered forth.

Mr. Carnegie's High Price.

Mr. Carnegie is fond of telling how he was once asked by the editor of a popular magazine for an article on organization in business.
"Well," said he, "I think I could write that article, but I am afraid the price I'd have to ask you would be too high."

"Oh, no," said the delighted editor, with a vision of a magnificent "feature" in an early number. "I'm sure we could arrange that satisfactorily.
Name your own figure."

"Well," replied Mr. Carnegie, "I could hardly afford to do it for less than $5,000,000." He smiled a little at sight of the editor's face and then went on: "No; I must withdraw that. What I should put into it has cost me much more than that, and of course you would not expect me to sell it to you at less than cost."

As the diplomatist puts it, "the negotiations fell through."

Bismarck's Philosophy of Life.

With dutiful trust in God, dig in the spurs and let life, like a wild horse, take you flying over hedge and ditch, resolved to break your neck, and yet fearless, inasmuch as you must some time part from all that is dear to you on earth, though not forever. If grief is near, well, let him come on, but until he arrives do not merely look bright and blessed, but be it, too, and when sorrow comes you bear it with dignity —that is to say, with submission and hope.—Love Letters of Prince Bismarck.

AFTER THE BATTLE.

A VETERAN'S STORY OF A TASSELED TURKISH FEZ.

The Grewsome Incident in Which He Participated at the Second Battle of Manassas—A Brave Boy and His Dying Request.

"Whenever I see a tasseled Turkish fez," said a Confederate veteran whose attention had been attracted by the smoking cap of that pattern in a Canal street window, "I am reminded of a curious and rather grewsome incident of my campaigning days. It was on the morning after the second battle of Manassas," he continued in response to a request for the story, "and several of us from my company had gone over to the field in the hope of picking up a few things that we badly needed and for which the dead had no further use —waterproofs, for instance, and sound canteens.

"During the previous day's engagement you may remember that a regiment of freshly recruited New York zouaves held the crest of a hill and were charged and almost annihilated by Hood's brigade. They were mowed down like ripened grain and fell so thickly that their corpses literally carpeted the earth. I dare say it was as awful a slaughter, considering the number engaged, as occurred anywhere in the course of the war.

"Well, we hadn't gone very far when we came to this hill and began to get among the dead men. The poor fellows had been mustered into service less than a week before, and they were said to be the most gorgeously uniformed military troop ever organized. They wore scarlet Turkish trousers, blue jackets embroidered with gold bullion braid and purple fezes with long pen-dant tassels.

"Being just from the outfitters, all this fine regalia was perfectly fresh and new, and somehow or other it added to the ghastliness of the spectacle on the hillside. The corpses were in all sorts of strange postures, and their fantastic costumes gave them an air of horrible grotesqueness that I couldn't begin to describe in words.

"However, to come to my point, I had picked up a fez to carry away as a relic and was about to leave the spot when I happened to notice a much handsomer specimen on the head of a little zouave stretched out, stiff and stark, a few yards away, with a handkerchief over his face. I stepped up to make a 'swap,' but had barely touched the tasseled when a low, sweet toned voice under the handkerchief said, "Please don't!"

"For a moment," continued the veteran, "that unpleasant protest, coming from what I had supposed to be a corpse, made my hair bristle on my head. Then I lifted the handkerchief and was shocked to see the delicate, refined features of a boy not over 15.
He was pale as death and evidently desperately wounded, but he looked at me calmly. 'My God,' I exclaimed, 'what a lad you are to be here!' 'I'm afraid I'm dying unless I have help,' he replied. 'Do you think the surgeons will be around pretty soon?' 'The Lord knows!' I groaned, for the boy's cor-rage touched me to the heart. 'Your surgeons have all run away, and we only have a few, with more wounded than they can attend to.' Then I guess all I can do is to lie here quietly and die,' he said in the same gentle voice.
'Can you get me a little water before you go?'

"I took his canteen and hurried down to a branch at the foot of the hill, where the first thing I saw, by the way, was the corpse of a zouave floating in a pool. I went up the stream far enough to get out of the horrible death zone, filled the canteen with pure water and was soon back at the boy's side.
I gave him a drink, and he thanked me.
'Is there nothing else I can do?' I asked awkwardly, because I knew our company was under early marching orders that morning and that it would be impossible for me to linger much longer.
'Nothing at all, thank you,' he replied.
'No message to anybody?' 'No; nothing, thanks!'

"I turned away most reluctantly and had gone only a few yards when I heard his thin voice calling me back.
'Excuse me,' he said, 'but I want you to accept this as a present,' and he handed me his fine purple fez. 'No, no,' I exclaimed, greatly embarrassed; 'I couldn't think of taking it. When I started to a little while ago, I thought you—' 'You—' 'Thought I was dead,' of course,' he interrupted. 'Well, I soon will be, and that other fez will do me just as well. Please put it on my head and take mine.' I saw that he would be hurt unless I did as he desired, so I took the fez and went away.

"In less than half an hour our company was on the march, and, needless to say, I never heard anything more of the little child zouave. He was badly wounded and undoubtedly died where I left him. I kept the fez a long time, added the veteran, "but it was finally lost, with other odds and ends, in the general confusion following the war.
'I'd give some money for it today.'" —New Orleans Times-Democrat.

The Good Effects of Apple Eating.

The apple is such common fruit that few are familiar with its remarkable efficacious properties. Everybody ought to know that the very best thing they can do is to eat apples just before retiring for the night. The apple is an excellent brain food, because it has more phosphoric acid in easily digested shape than any other vegetable known.
It excites the action of the liver, promotes sound and healthy sleep and thoroughly disinfects the mouth. That is not all. The apple agglutinates the surplus acids of the stomach, helps the kidney secretions and is one of the best preventives known of diseases of the throat.—Journal of Agriculture.

One Still Nicer.

Mrs. Newma—Oh, I wish you could see Mrs. Winkler's baby. It's perfectly lovely! Such a delicate, sweet little creature as it is! It's a perfect little cherub, with the loveliest eyes, the sweetest little mouth, the cunningest little nose and eyes of heavenly blue.
It looks as if it had just dropped from heaven and every tiny feature had been fashioned by the angels.
Mr. Newma—Is it as nice as our baby?
Mrs. Newma—Mercy! No; not half as nice.—Pearson's Weekly.

FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

A Supplementary Pantry.

The first thing is to take stock of your domestic dominion intelligently.
Consider well its possibilities, then set about realizing them. With a hall or porch handy try to put the ice box there. Give it the best light possible and as much fresh air. Close beside it fix your fresh air closet, which, save in the most torrid weather, keeps cooled food better than the ice box itself. It demands only to be put out of doors away from the sun's direct rays. Hence it is as much a boon to the flat dweller with a shady fire escape or north looking window as to the people who have houses all to themselves.

Anybody who can drive a nail can make one at a cost not to exceed a dollar. It is only a frame box with door and sides of wire gauze and shelves across the inside. It is best made fast to the wall at such a height as to be safe from prowling cats and should have further a trusty lock. Put away food in it in clean earthen dishes, never in any sort of metal, not even in silver. Slip each dish into a separate cheesecloth bag and twist the bag and tight. If ant, black or red, discover the closet, paint the wood box all outside with camphor once a fortnight. Twice a year take down the whole contrivance and scald it outside and in with boiling soda water.

All manner of food keeps beautifully in it from one meal to the next. Further, things may be put in it while still warm. If they have to go into a tight, unventilated place, as a refrigerator, they must needs be stone cold, or they will get soggy and smelly.

Vapor and Shower Baths.

The merits of both the shower and vapor baths are well understood, and yet comparatively few bathrooms are fitted with these appliances for the bather's comfort. Herman C. Larzelere of Buffalo has just designed a tub attachment by means of which both these baths can be administered without the aid of the ordinary tub, the improved arrangement being illustrated in the accompanying cut. One of the chief merits of the invention is that it can be

COMBINATION BATH APPARATUS.

attached to the tub without the aid of screws or clamps, the base portion resting on the edges of the tub and supporting the upright shower apparatus by its own weight, thus enabling the bather to remove it easily when only a tub bath is desired. The vertical standard is utilized as a support for the drapery and passageway for the water from the faucets. The ring is secured to the tube by a clamp, which allows it to be raised or lowered to the desired height, and when a vapor bath is to be taken a towel thrown over the ring will close the curtain sufficiently for the purpose.

Novelties in Brise-blee Curtains.

The latest idea for spring dwarf blinds is to paint across the fine canvas etamine or even silk foundation a few bold sprigs or trails. A good opportunity is here given to the ingenuity, symbolic knowledge and private taste of the home worker, who can bring any amount of originality to bear on depicting the blossoms of the month, of the nation, the favorites of the mistress of the house
